NINETEEN SIXTY-FIVE
ILIUM

TAYLOR UNIVERSITY
UPLAND, INDIANA

"When he glanced out across the Trojan plain, he was confounded by the innumerable fires burning in front of Ilium, by the music of the flutes and reed pipes, and the voices of the troops." The Iliad.

Today,
Lightbulbs;
Stereos.
But still voices.

Voices revealing minds,
Searching,
Meeting,
Communicating.

Life, a moment of time:
An epic.
Ilium, 1965,
Taylor University.

How far have we pursued?
How deeply cherished?
How near the beggar?
Or is it, after all is done and past and almost forgotten,
how near the profession?
How softened are our fingers?
How callous-strengthened our hands?

Who can contain the excitement of happening?
Who can touch
all the rain?
This is a yearbook:
at best, a token of
involvement;
the complexities of an instant are far beyond the simplicity and understanding of an hour.

The play says, "We've come to a time."
 But it is not the time
 that is important;
 for the interim of a moment is always and ever crowded by the very continuity of which it is a part.
 Rather, it is the "we."
 The culmination,
 the beginning,
 the now are people.
 And eternity is men.

Whether we are building, competing,
or fearing,
the emphasis is "together;"
and the song is ours.

But the playing is yours . . .
and his . . .
and mine.

The harmony is too complex, too rich, too full
to be easily contained in a scale;
and the tones fall separately
upon the ear.

Only the integrating resolves the dissonance and realizes the symphony.

It is the effort of all that makes the vision of one important.
The flowers . . . a window . . . the sun . . .
the writing in the snow.
Each is all-significant, all-important.
And the love of God is the measure of greatness.

Taylor
University
1964

And so the university exists.

The love, triumph,
and hope of one is the joy of all,

just as the loneliness and discouragement must be the burden of all.

We are a family.

It is we who are the propagation.
And although at times we may think our lives to be merely tinder to an already too-hot furnace, it is only upon such as we that the furnace feeds.

RESIDENT

ADMINISTRATION

President B. Joseph Martin

Serves Fifth Year at Taylor

From his greeting to incoming freshmen until his final word to seniors at spring graduation, Dr. B. Joseph Martin is a familiar figure in almost every area of life at Taylor.

President Martin, Mrs. Martin, and "Mother" Duryea.

- . . . A smile for students gathered in the grill as he stops for a cup of coffee.
- . . . A shout of encouragement to the team from his position in crowded bleachers.
- . . . A handshake for a parent, a guest speaker, a businessman, or a student.
- . . . An admonition during a chapel hour.
- . . . A confidant and help to those who seek his aid.
- . . . A leader when someone must take responsibility.
- . . . A sigh of weariness as he leaves his darkened office at the end of a day.
- . . . A prayer for the future of Taylor during a quiet moment of meditation.
- . . . A president.

Elaine Handschu, secretary to the President.

Dr. Martin speaks with Mr. Lester C. Gerin, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and distinguished visiting Professor, Dr. Gladys Borchers, at a Faculty-Board fellowship hour.

Academic Dean and Acting President
Milo A. Rediger

Academic Dean and Acting President, Milo A. Rediger

Dr. Milo A. Rediger, who assumed the duties of Acting President second semester, strives to establish the highest possible standard of academic excellence in his co-ordinate position of Academic Dean.

In molding the academic framework to the ever-increasing and changing Taylor need, he helps students prepare to meet the widening, changing world of which we are a part.

Mrs. Leola Evans
Secretary to Dr. Rediger

Associate
Academic Dean,
Dorsey Brause

Assisting Dr. Rediger is Associate Academic Dean, Dr. Dorsey Brause. The class schedule was among the projects undertaken by Dr. Brause as he joined the Administrative staff last fall. Taking on the added responsibilities of Dean Nelson's duties during the second semester, Dr. Brause worked with students through the Student Personnel Services.

Gladys Connors, Secretary to Dr. Brause

Associate Registrar and Director of Admissions, Stanley Banker

Associate Registrar and Director of Admissions, Mr. Stanley Banker, is new at Taylor this year. Mr. Banker's work involves easing the students' sometimes difficult task of registering and of assisting Dr. Phinney in various areas of the registration and admissions programs.

Admissions Counselor, Russell Clark

Promoting an interest in Taylor University to prospective students is the job of Russell Clark, Admissions Counselor.

Traveling a great deal of the time, Mr. Clark speaks to students all over the country and gives them advice on college admission procedure.

Registrar and Director of Admissions, E. Sterl Phinney

Dr. E. Sterl Phinney, Registrar and Director of Admissions, processes the applications of prospective students, records semester grades and grade point averages, and sends mid-term warning slips. In his concurring role of Professor of History, Dr. Phinney teaches two history classes each semester.

Dean of Students, Henry Nelson

Bringing each phase of college life into the experience of the individual student is the role of the Dean of Students, Mr. Henry Nelson.

The integration of an individual and his college community begins with the freshman orientation program, administered by Mr. Nelson and chosen student leaders. Personal counseling and individual guidance are two of Mr. Nelson's challenging roles—two of the most appreciated by students.

Business Manager, Paul D. Keller

The responsibilities of directing the school budget, handling student loans, and administering the financial affairs of Taylor, are met by Mr. Paul D. Keller, Business Manager. Working with student organizations in the area of finances and keeping the business of the relocation project in mind, Mr. Keller works with a well-trained staff to keep up with the affairs of a growing college.

Board members, Dr. Richard Halfast and Mrs. Edward E. Sears, and Professor Darwin Miller.

Board of Trustees and Faculty Confer

Rev. Hugh S. Townley and Dr. Charles W. Shilling, Board members.

Rev. Herbert M. Frazer, Board member.

Henry Nelson of the Taylor faculty and Board members Dr. Harlowe Evans and Mr. Howard M. Skinner.

Board member
Mr. Milton V.
Schubert, Jr.
and Dr. Milo
A. Rediger,
Vice President of Taylor.

Mr. Godfrey
Ebricht of the
Taylor staff and
Board member
Dr. Byron F.
Stroh.

Professors Robert Cotner and Jesse Evans, and Board members, Mr. Clarence H. Varns and Mr. D. L. Haffner.

Board members, Dr. J. Paul Gentile and Dr. Robert D. Allen.

Board member, Mr. David Cox.

Board member, Dr. Carl W. Hassel and Dr. Donald Porter, of the Taylor faculty.

Board member Dr. Marshall W. C. Burn and Professor Grace O'Brien of the Taylor Faculty.

Dr. Thurman B. Morris, member of the Board.

Division of Philosophy and Religion

Combining the sometimes seemingly incompatible concepts of God's revelation and man's philosophies are the Departments of Philosophy and Religion. Encouraging students not to be afraid of their intellects, but rather to use them to "prove" the truth, philosophy and religion join hand in hand to show an individual meaning in life and help establish a goal-directed value system.

Charles Carter, Th.M.
Chairman of the Division of Philosophy
And Religion, Professor of Philosophy and Religion.

Dale Heath, B.D.
Assistant Professor of Religion and Greek.

Duane Thompson, Ph.D.
Professor of Philosophy and Religion.

Donald C. Steltz, B.D.
Instructor of Religion

Symposium Dialectum membership stresses discussion and logical thinking. Members are: Sponsor, Professor C. Davis, Rodney Taylor, Susie Rosberg, Bobbi Sheesley, Connie Cuthbertson, Ken Giles, John Baer, Kurt Hunsberger, and Paul Taylor.

Division of Education

Theory is combined with practical experience in the Taylor education program as potential teachers pass from orientation courses, through methods courses, and finally to student teaching and an actual classroom situation.

Robert Hayes, Ed.D.
Chairman of the Division of Education,
Professor of Education.

Ross Snyder, M.A.
Associate Professor of Education

George Haines, M.S. Ed.
Assistant Professor of Education

Mrs. Ralph Boyd and Mrs. Louise Snyder take care of Education Department affairs and patiently answer students' inquiries.

Carolyn Anderson makes use of the education file in the curriculum lab.

Jennie Andrews, M.A.
Professor of Education

The Professional Semester –A Transition From One Side of the Desk to the Other

Mary Ellen Matthews realizes the goal of education majors as she practices her chosen profession.

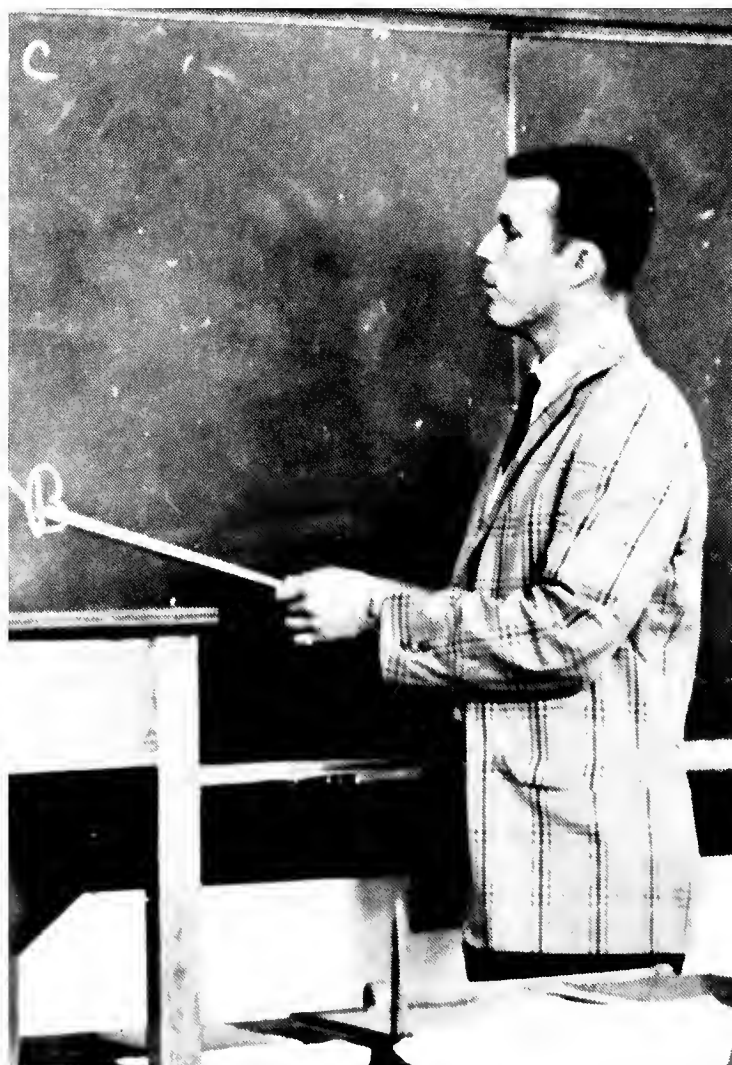

Bill Wiley signs on as a "faculty" member, as Mr. Paul Garrison, Superintendent of Schools of the Richmond School System, watches.

From the Diary of

"Now comes the climax of all the years of study and preparation. Now we have come to teach. It is time to look like a teacher, to think like a teacher, and to be thought of as a teacher. Here we meet students who call us 'Miss' and 'Mr.' and we go every morning to look into the faces of young people whose future in some way will depend on us. As we live and work together here, many of us come to know what we are, and where we are going and when we return from here, we will not be as when we left."

Jim Miller prepares tomorrow's lesson.

Classroom instruction becomes a reality at last for Bill Wiley.

a Student Teacher

Becky Beitzel, Marsha Fields, Mary Ellen Matthews, Marylee Sweet have evening devotions in their Richmond apartment.

Doing projects for the following day are Marsha Fields and Becky Beitzel.

Marsha Fields goes over the day's subject matter with her supervising teacher, Mrs. Lucille Murley.

Reading a story to her class, Marylee Sweet emphasizes a point.

Becky Beitzel helps one of her pupils to learn about finding a book through a card file.

Choral and Oratorio Present Music for Student Body

The annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" was given by the first-semester Oratorio Chorus directed by Professor Marvin Dean.

The orchestra made up of Taylor students and supplemented by local talent performed with the chorus December 13. Second semester, Professor Charles Sims directed the Oratorio Chorus in three selections taken from Latin and translated into English.

Symphonic Band Presents Concerts

From the football field to the concert stage, the Taylor University Symphonic Band executes intricacies in the field of music through marching and playing. Presenting two concerts annually—one the much looked forward to "Pops" Concert—the band practices regularly to achieve the excellence for which they strive.

The Brass Choir "solos" without the rest of the band.

Mixing colors on his palette, Norm Andresen prepares to apply a new color to his landscape.

Professor Jack Patton, head of the Department of Art, assists a student with his drawing.

Artistic expression in drawing, painting, sculptoring, and molding is given release through the Art Department, directed by Professor Jack Patton. Much creativity and originality which remained unobtrusive most of the year was brought to light during the Spring Art Festival where student's work on exhibits showed varied and interesting techniques and styles.

Department

Sharon Hultman and Professor Patton take a look at Sharon's latest work.

Division of Languages and Literature

Words as symbols of ideas, enable man to communicate with others and pass knowledge on via language. Both the written and the spoken language have been the vehicles of man's progress and technology. The Departments of Speech, English, and Foreign Languages, strive to enable students to express themselves clearly with an awareness that language must be preceded by thought to be of value.

Equipping themselves for a possible career in radio, amateurs James Ross, Barb Durnbaugh, Mark Clough stage an afternoon drama during radio and T.V. class.

Freshman debaters, Wayne Ridder and Roger Hinkle, listen carefully as Dr. Haas points out a weakness in the affirmative.

Fred Haas, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor of Speech

Mim Schmitt, Editor-in-Chief, bore the responsibility of planning and co-ordinating the various phases of compiling the 1965 ILIUM.

As Business Manager, Jerry Showalter handled all the financial details of the yearbook.

Life at Taylor, 1964-65 Transcribed in Ilium

The sounds of a typewriter tapping into the night, a ringing phone, banging file drawers, and voices.

Scattered pictures, copy, schedules, rulers, and pencils.

The acid smell of the dark room—proofs, prints, developer, and fixer.

Questions, decisions, problems, solutions.

The result—a history book, a memory book, a pictorial record of the school year, a tie between the school and community, an experience of learning—a yearbook.

Bob Lovell, Sports Editor, and Terra Crisman, Faculty Editor, use the ILIUM office for selecting candids. Jeannine Terhune organizes the section of student pictures.

Phyllis Grimm, Copy Editor, spent her hours at the typewriter in order to meet the impending deadlines.

Jay Comstock contributed his time and talent taking and developing yearbook pictures.

Linda Mortenson, Layout Editor, was kept busy at her drawing board.

Arranging pictures and scheduling was the main job of Lynn Matthews, Organizations Editor.

Norm Andresen took photographs and did a great deal of darkroom work.

Fran Weiss, second-semester Editor, supervises the publication of Echo from ideas to that final ink on the printed page.

Informing readers of current activities and occurrences is one important duty of a school newspaper. Another is entertainment. But certainly the most controversial duty of the Echo is communicating ideas between students, faculty and administration. Expressing the varied student opinions, attitudes, and conflicting viewpoints. The Echo helps stimulate an intellectual environment.

Echo Staff Strives to Stimulate Thought, Controversy

Associate Editor, Mike Haynes, livens up staff meetings with his subtle sense of humor and in his more serious moments writes many of the editorials.

First-semester Editor, Dave Abbott, continues to take an active part in the publication of the paper.

Front page stories must be combined in order of importance to form an attractive layout, as Rachel Hoisington News Editor realizes.

Lee Johnson, Circulation Manager, and Roger Sharp, Business Manager, discuss "important" business.

Division of Social Sciences

The problems of contemporary man in a complex world are studied carefully by psychology and sociology students who seek a Christian approach to filling man's psychological and social needs. Historical facts are presented so that students may better evaluate and interpret the present while finding a guide to the future. The history made by men through the ages, years, and months past is learned in the classroom as facts. The past is a foundation for further development of the future. Current ideas, thoughts, attitudes, and philosophies are rooted in the past. An attempt at understanding can only be made through this knowledge—basic for coping with the contemporary world of which each student is a part.

Division of Natural Sciences

The physical world, life, and the world of the abstract are combined in the studies of the Division of Natural Sciences.

Whether studying the solar system the minute structure of the atom, or the principles of mathematics which allow them to function in their unique way, man is made aware of unity, organization, and the causal, God.

AuSable Field Station Officially Opens

Professor Snyder instructs interested students in biology in natural surroundings.

Sid Forsyth, Garrett Crow, and Professor Snyder study and get a suntan at the same time.

Training in the recognition of problems, the formulation of hypotheses for their solution, the collection of pertinent data and information, and the subsequent formulation of logical conclusions is not only useful to aspiring scientists, medical students, and researchers, but also to every student who wants more accurate solutions to many problems in everyday life.

In an attempt to make science even more useful to Taylor students, the Science Department will officially open its biological field station at the AuSable State Forest this summer. In this way students may see exactly how animals and plants behave in their natural surroundings.

Besides studies, Sid Forsyth and a friend find time to enjoy the recreational aspects of the camp.

Seven Students Named to Who's Who

Exhibiting abilities in varying fields of interest, eleven students have been selected for membership in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities, a national organization for recognition of outstanding students on the basis of scholarship, extra-curricular activities, personal character, and potential achievement in post-graduate days.

Each student received a certificate of recognition and is eligible to be included in the organization's publication. Also available is a placement and reference service for employment, scholarships, and fellowships.

COMMITTEES

Students Find Expression Through Student Government

The Taylor University Student Council is an organization which represents the entire student body by governing, coordinating, and integrating student opinion, campus life, and student-faculty relations. Student Council strives to establish a closer relationship between administration, faculty, and students. It initiates and attempts to carry through legislation which will be beneficial to the student body.

The eleven members are chosen directly by the student body. Each representative serves in a specific capacity, either as a committee chairman, or as an organizational representative. It is in the committees that much of the council work is done. Full sessions are reserved for discussion of more general issues which require discussion of student opinion.

In addition to the permanent members on council are representatives from the Interclass Council, student-faculty committees, Student Judicial Board, and an appointed sophomore to represent the freshman class.

The Executive Committee: Secretary Sheryl Hatton, Treasurer Bob Stewart, Vice President Jack Van Vesseem, President Lynn Miller.

Judiciary Board Promotes Honor Principle

The Student Judicial Board, formerly known as the Honor Board, exemplifies the judicial administration of Taylor. Promoting and maintaining the honor principle is an integral phase of this body. The Board seeks to provide the students with a proper framework of justice which operates within the honor principle. Forums discussion groups, articles in the student newspaper, and publicized information concerning the proceedings of the court are used to help instill within the individual a sense of corporate responsibility for the welfare of the University.

Dan Kastlelein
Chairman of the Judiciary Board

The Service Committee is responsible for all service projects which fall under the jurisdiction of the Student Council. Jeff Dye is chairman of the committee on which are Sue Amt, Lan Petrie, Nancy Rea, Rick Walker, Marty Littrell, Linda Reedy and JoAnn Johnson.

The Finance Committee transacts the fiscal business of the Student Council and regulates the budgets of campus organizations which receive student fees. Dave Phillips, Susie Rosberg, Chairman Bob Stewart, and Jim Richards are the members.

Vital to the college program is the publicity of activities; the Campus Communications Committee handles the important job of informing the students. Members are, left to right, Marcia Edgett, Dorothy Kalb, Jim Strong, Elaine Saunders, and Chairman Sue Phillips.

Student Work of

The Public Affairs Committee seeks to promote an interest in national and international events on campus. The members are, clockwise, Chairman Jim Morris, Kerry Stucky, Carter Clews, Paul Bauer, Dave Randall, Faculty-Advisor Julius Valberg, Dee Friesen, Carol Saxton, Priscilla Robb.

The Social Committee has the responsibility of guiding the social life on campus. Members are, left to right, Dave Engeseth, Sharon Hultman, Sharon Osterhus, Ken Wolgemuth, Chairman Lois Tillman, Donna Van Buskirk, and Kent Fishel. Advisor is Miss Lois Bledsoe.

Steve Bedi chairs the Organizations Committee, which correlates organizational and inter-organizational activities. Rodney Taylor and Svend Abrahamsen assist him. Members not pictured: Ted Hover, Onley Heath, Don Albaugh.

Committees Expedite Student Council

Comprising the Student Academic Affairs Committee are Chairman Dennis Moller, Lu Lang, Jim Raikes, Advisor Dr. Dorsey Brause, Rodney Taylor. Primarily this committee considers all items dealing with the academic life of the University.

Student-Faculty Committees Formulate

The Chapel Committee arranges all chapel services and programs in relation to the official college calendar. Members are, clockwise, Chairman Meredith Haines, Tim Reeves, Sharon Oestreicher, Dr. B. Joseph Martin, Professor Marvin Dean, Professor Charles Carter, Dr. Milo Rediger. Not pictured: Dr. Dorsey Brause, Dave Shwalter.

Campus Policies

The Fine Arts Committee schedules the lyceum and other cultural programs. Members are, sitting, Mrs. Gladys Greathouse; standing, Chairman Prof. Marvin Dean and Prof. Jack Patton. Not pictured, Mr. Paul Keller, Miss Lois Weed, Mr. Wilbur Cleveland, Rob Steedman, Bob Markley, and Mary Lynn Widick.

The Library Committee serves as an advisory cabinet for the head librarian. Members are: sitting, Miss Grace Olson, Chairman Alice Holcombe, Jane Darnell, Dr. Frances Ewbank, Lois Weed. Standing, Ray Woodcock, Bob Frey, Professor Fred Luthy.

The Religious Services Committee co-ordinates policies and procedures for all religious activities in the overall campus program. Its members include, front to back, Chairman Prof. Fred Luthy, Mr. Godfrey Ebright, Dr. Milo Rediger, Carol Davis, Elaine Miller, Miss Hilda Steyer, Prof. Meredith Haines, Prof. Fred Haas, Dr. Dorsey Brause and Mr. Tony Ladd.

SPIRITUAL

Religious Services an Integral Part of College Life

Dr. Jim Young delivers a provocative chapel message concerning the "barnacles" of a Christian's faith.

A week of Spiritual Emphasis each semester encourages students to think of their personal relationship to Christ.

Confronting students with the need of Christian unity in the fall Spiritual Emphasis Week was Bishop of India, J. Waskom Pickett, missionary statesman for forty-six years. Dr. Verlin Kruschwitz, a graduate of Taylor and pastor, spoke during the spring Spiritual Emphasis Week.

Ambassadors for Christ Cabinet: Vice-President John Askew, Pianist Harriet Smith, Secretary Carol Meland, President Gary Bowman, Advisor Miss Janet Benning, Usher Charles Papp, Song Leader Gene Platte, Treasurer, Dave Dilley.

"Some Have Not God; This To Your Shame"

Each fall, Ambassadors for Christ presents a Missionary Conference in an effort to acquaint students with the great missionary need. "Some have not God; this to your shame" was the theme of the 1964 Conference. Bud Schaeffer, well-known missionary from the Philippines, and Dr. Frank Stanger, active Bible speaker, challenged students of their task as missionaries.

Gary Bowman, President of the Ambassadors for Christ Club, conducts the opening portion of the Missionary Conference meeting.

Religious Drama Group Presents Plays in Area Churches

Religious Drama is a unique segment of the Drama Department. Students who are interested in religious drama may take a course in which they study and dramatize religious plays. These players known as the Players of Genesius, present two selected plays in churches throughout the mid-western states upon request. One of this season's plays, "The House by the Stable" by Charles Williams, is a morality play of man's essentiality to choose a life of faith rather than pride. The other, "Experience in Compassion," takes segments of plays by Tennessee Williams to evince that love is vital in understanding and reaching non-Christians.

Dave Slater and Joan Templin, members of the Religious Drama group act out a scene in compassion from "Summer and Smoke" by Tennessee Williams.

"Wandering Wheels" Travel Down Mississippi

Coach Davenport and his bike riders, who hail from various schools, pause for a while before they continue their journey south.

Wandering Wheels, a program initiated by Coach Bob Davenport, is an effort to provide youth a testimony for Christian living and at the same time build strong, disciplined bodies. The 1,000-mile bicycle journey down the Mississippi brought together fifteen youth from five states.

Gospel Teams Afford Students Opportunities to Use Their Specific Talents

Seniors Elaine Miller and Annette Nerguizian practice their duet for gospel team.

Bob Stewart, Dave Abbott, and Rick Shearer travel across the Midwest using their talents for the Lord.

Deeper Life Fellowship Seeks Spiritual Enrichment

Fulfilling students' interest in deepening their personal relationships with Christ is Deeper Life Fellowship. The organization meets each Friday evening to study the Bible, have discussions, and see related films. The Personal Evangelism program, a group within Deeper Life Fellowship, strives to give students the opportunity to translate their belief to action. Distributing tracts and other literature, community service, and personal witnessing are areas in which they accomplish this.

Deeper Life Fellowship officers: Sitting, Secretary Jane Stickler. Standing, Song Leader Bob Stewart, Sponsor Godfrey Ebright, Vice President Kurt Hunsberger, Usher Dave Dilley, President Paul Taylor, Publicity Chairman Ron Helzerman.

Participating in Personal Evangelism are: Kurt Hunsberger, Dave Dilley, Sharon Oestreicher, Sue Phillips, Irene Hageman, Donna Van Buskirk, Jeanne Desposita, Paul Cochrane, Steve Huser, Paul Taylor.

Kurt Hunsberger talks to the altar counselors and discussion leaders in the first training session.

"Not I, but Christ"

Numerous hours of thinking, planning, and praying are devoted in preparation for Youth Conference. Over seven hundred high school students poured onto Taylor's campus for the week-end activities.

"Not I, But Christ," taken from Galatians 2:20, was this year's Conference theme. Young people from many states were confronted with the paradigm of living a life through Christ.

Dr. Larry Love, Bible teacher and former associate evangelist with the Billy Graham Crusade Team, and Rev. Zenal Brown, evangelist and missionary, directed the minds of the young people "live" through Christ.

Discussion leader and altar counselor chairmen are Onley Heath, Judy Carlson, Sue Phillips, and Fred Walthour.

SOCIAL

Having found one of the books she needs from the stacks, Em Goetz pauses to skim through the introduction.

Innumerable hours of practice are required to complete successfully a music major, as Elaine Miller can readily testify.

After the orientation week of fun, fun, fun, studying comes hard to many freshmen. The best place to study, according to the more sociable students, is the library. After a hard night of diligent study, tension is relieved over a coke at the grill.

Meetings with advisors, "D" slips, term papers, pre-registration, and final exams suggest the close of another year. Many students face the same schedule next year, but for the seniors, four years of study have led to graduation and a challenging future.

Dan Barker and Doug Dickinson operate some of the experimental equipment available to students in the modern physics course.

Ron Shugart watches intently as the end results of an experiment drip slowly from the glass tubing.

Becky Harvey brings her slide into focus before beginning her laboratory assignment for general biology.

"Just for a couple of minutes . . ."

Paul Cochrane lays aside his psychology text and takes a break from study during an evening at the library.

Ron Guyer turns part of the Swedish Box on its side to form a desk so he can study in a corner of the gymnastics room.

Melinda Stevens takes advantage of the ping pong tables in the Student Center to accumulate P.E. points and use some "extra" energy.

Jerry Hackney calls to a friend in the weight-lifting section of the gymnastics room as he hurries by the trampoline.

Warm-up exercises are a "must" for the women's general physical education classes, and sit-ups are always more bearable when they can be done with thirty other girls.

For both those who participate and those who watch, Taylor University has much to offer in the sports department. Aside from vigorous physical education classes, students are also found at football and basketball games and some even cut classes to attend track meets. Jumping on the trampoline is a favorite way to get P. E. points, and spring often finds the tennis courts crowded.

Did they win or lose? It's hard to tell from Jack Wood's reaction as he tries to catch his breath in the locker room.

From a spectator's point of view, a basketball game can be pure torture—the fellows on the bench with Coaches Glass and Odle watch as the referees make a foul-shot decision.

Bonnie Fisher and Dick Gygi take advantage of the few minutes before the dinner line opens to enjoy each other's company and to discuss "Skippy Freeland."

College presents many perplexing problems to those living away from home. Is my iron too hot? How do I pin on his boutonniere. Hasn't the mail come yet? Why can't we make the float out of real flowers? Students arrive armed for dorm life with a can of spray starch, stuffed animals, radios, and the inevitable corn poppers.

Morning at T. U. begins with the buzz of the alarm, a 7:30 class, a trip to the "P. O.," breakfast at the grill, and then chapel. Classes, dinner, perhaps a basketball game, studying, and then time for goofing off with friends. Finally, the dorm settles down for the night, while a few lights still burn as tests and term papers keep some awake into the early hours of the morning.

There's no one around at college to help iron shirts or sew on buttons, but Sam Gloyd seems to be making the best of the situation by himself.

Sue Winey makes the Gamma Delta Beta banquet an opportunity to invite a friend from Ball State.

Joan Chamberlain combines business with pleasure as she flashes a smile to a friend across the table while they study in the library.

Nancy Perkinson, Barb Kirchner, and Cheryl Hummel serve coffee and tea at one of the several faculty-visitor receptions held throughout the year.

In anticipation of a weekend of activity, Nelson Rediger stops for a last minute hair cut before returning to the "shacks" to put on the finishing touches.

Though Bette Clint and Ken Flanigan often study together in the Student Center, they can always find time for a short break and a good-natured laugh.

As all other students, Steve Corvaia and Carl Walter find that studying is the most basic part of a college education.

Mr. Bob Johnson, head resident of INU'S Alpha House, not only manages the details of this dormitory, but also finds time to take post-graduate study.

Thirteen I.N.U. Men Share Campus Life

This year Taylor students welcomed the addition of thirteen Indiana Northern University students to the campus. Living in off-campus housing known as the Alpha House, these men attended classes, frequented the library, ate in the cafeteria, visited the grill and competed in intramurals with Taylor students.

Watching television can prove to be an enjoyable way of spending an evening. Bill Miliano, Vinnie Migrione, Carl Walter, Bill Glime, and Ray Little relax in front of the set in the Alpha House lounge.

The charter members of the Alpha Phi Gamma honorary fraternity gather for their first formal picture. They are, from left to right: row 1—Dave Abbott, Mim Schmitt, Fran Weiss, and Kurt Hunsberger; row 2—Ray Snyder, Mike Haynes, Jerry Showalter, and Professor Charles Davis.

Both of the Greek-letter fraternities on Taylor's campus have been organized to promote the standards of the professions which they represent. Alpha Pi Iota is a society for students planning to enter the field of medicine after graduation.

The Gamma Tau chapter of Alpha Phi Gamma, a national honorary journalistic fraternity was organized on campus this year with the purpose of furthering significant literary development and achievement in its members.

The officers of Alpha Pi Iota at Taylor are John Askew, Donna Fridstrom, Ken Guile, and Professor Gordon Krueger.

Dorm Council Smooths Student Dorm Life

The Magee-Campbell-Wisconsin dorm counselors, who meet together every Monday night, discuss problems which arise in the dorm and on campus.

Whether by organizing special interest groups, sponsoring dorm parties, buying vacuum cleaners and bicycles, or regulating quiet hours, dorm council strives to promote personal responsibility and integrity in the life of each girl at Taylor.

Lyceum Series Brings Renown Performers to Taylor

The Lyceum Series, presented by the Fine Arts Committee, provides cultural enrichment and enjoyment for the Taylor students. Opening the Series this year was the Beaux Arts Trio. A few weeks later, the E. Martin Browne presented dramatic interpretations of Shakespeare and T. S. Elliot. Those who heard Ralph Votapek, the talented young pianist, were thrilled by his repertoire of classical music.

Adele Addison, soprano soloist, opened the season for the second semester. The final artist of the series, Earl Carlyss, enchanted the audience with his program of violin music.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Martin Browne enact the love scene from Shakespeare's ROMEO AND JULIET in the second of this year's series.

"Is that my costume?" Carl Haaland gives the wardrobe assistant his attention during the dress rehearsal of HEDDA GABLER.

One of the early rehearsals for ARSENIC AND OLD LACE breaks into informality as the actors take time out for coffee in Attica.

Dramatic Understanding Promoted by Trojan Players

To explore the depths of human personality through drama and through interaction with each other—this is the purpose of the Taylor University Trojan Players. Under the sponsorship of Dr. James Young, the students belonging to this organization succeed in becoming more aware of the world around them and in imparting this awareness to their audiences.

Candle Light Transforms the Cafeteria for Banquets and Buffets

The autumn leaves scattered about the campus found their way into the program of the Fall Banquet. Heralding the arrival of the first vacation of the school year, the traditional Thanksgiving Buffet surpassed all expectations.

Along with snowball fights and slippery sidewalks, the Christmas Banquet is another sign of winter. The traditional Christmas tree decorated the cafeteria while the theme, "Yuletide," presented itself in the program and in the spirits of the students.

In the contemporary Christmas spirit, the Sophomore Men's Quartet—Russ Lesser, Ben Lester, Roger Demarest, and Pete Carlson—give their own rendition of "Rudolph" for the winter banquet.

Elaine Miller and Annette Nerguizian lend their voices to complete the entertainment in the "Yuletide" spirit.

As little children in a Christmas program, Tim Anderson and Trum Simmons present a comic skit to the audience at "Yuletide."

The candlelight induction ceremony is meaningful to old and new members.

Opportunities for Service Are Provided by the Gamma Delta Beta Society

Gamma Delta Beta, a society for girls, emphasizes the social life of a Christian. The year opens for the "Gamma Delts" with the induction of officers in a candle lighting ceremony. No little "sis" will ever forget the pledge weeks, and no big "sis" will ever forget the work put into the annual Valentine Banquet.

The 1965 banquet, with a Japanese theme, featured Bill Pierce as guest soloist. Other activities of the club include the Alumnae Brunch at Homecoming, baby sitting for the faculty, the Urban League, and cheering sections at football and basketball games.

With the Christmas tree in the background, the Gamma Delta Beta Society inducts new members at their December meeting.

"... the honor of your presence at the Gamma Delta Beta Banquet on February 19, 1965, at ..."

So begins the flurry of activity and formality surrounding the annual Gamma Delta Beta banquet. A formal invitation to the man of one's choice, the wait for his reply, the dress, the flowers, and, at last, the night—all are a part of the excitement and the memories.

"Tanabata" was the 1965 banquet theme, with decorations setting the atmosphere of oriental Japan. The formal dinner commenced with the crowning of the Gamma Delta Beta Sweetheart, Judy Carlson. The program featured a satire of "Madame Butterfly" and concluded with music by Bill Pierce.

Spirit High During "Class Of The Year" Contest

The annual twenty-five mile Bikathon begins as the pace car leads the first riders from each class once around the cinder track.

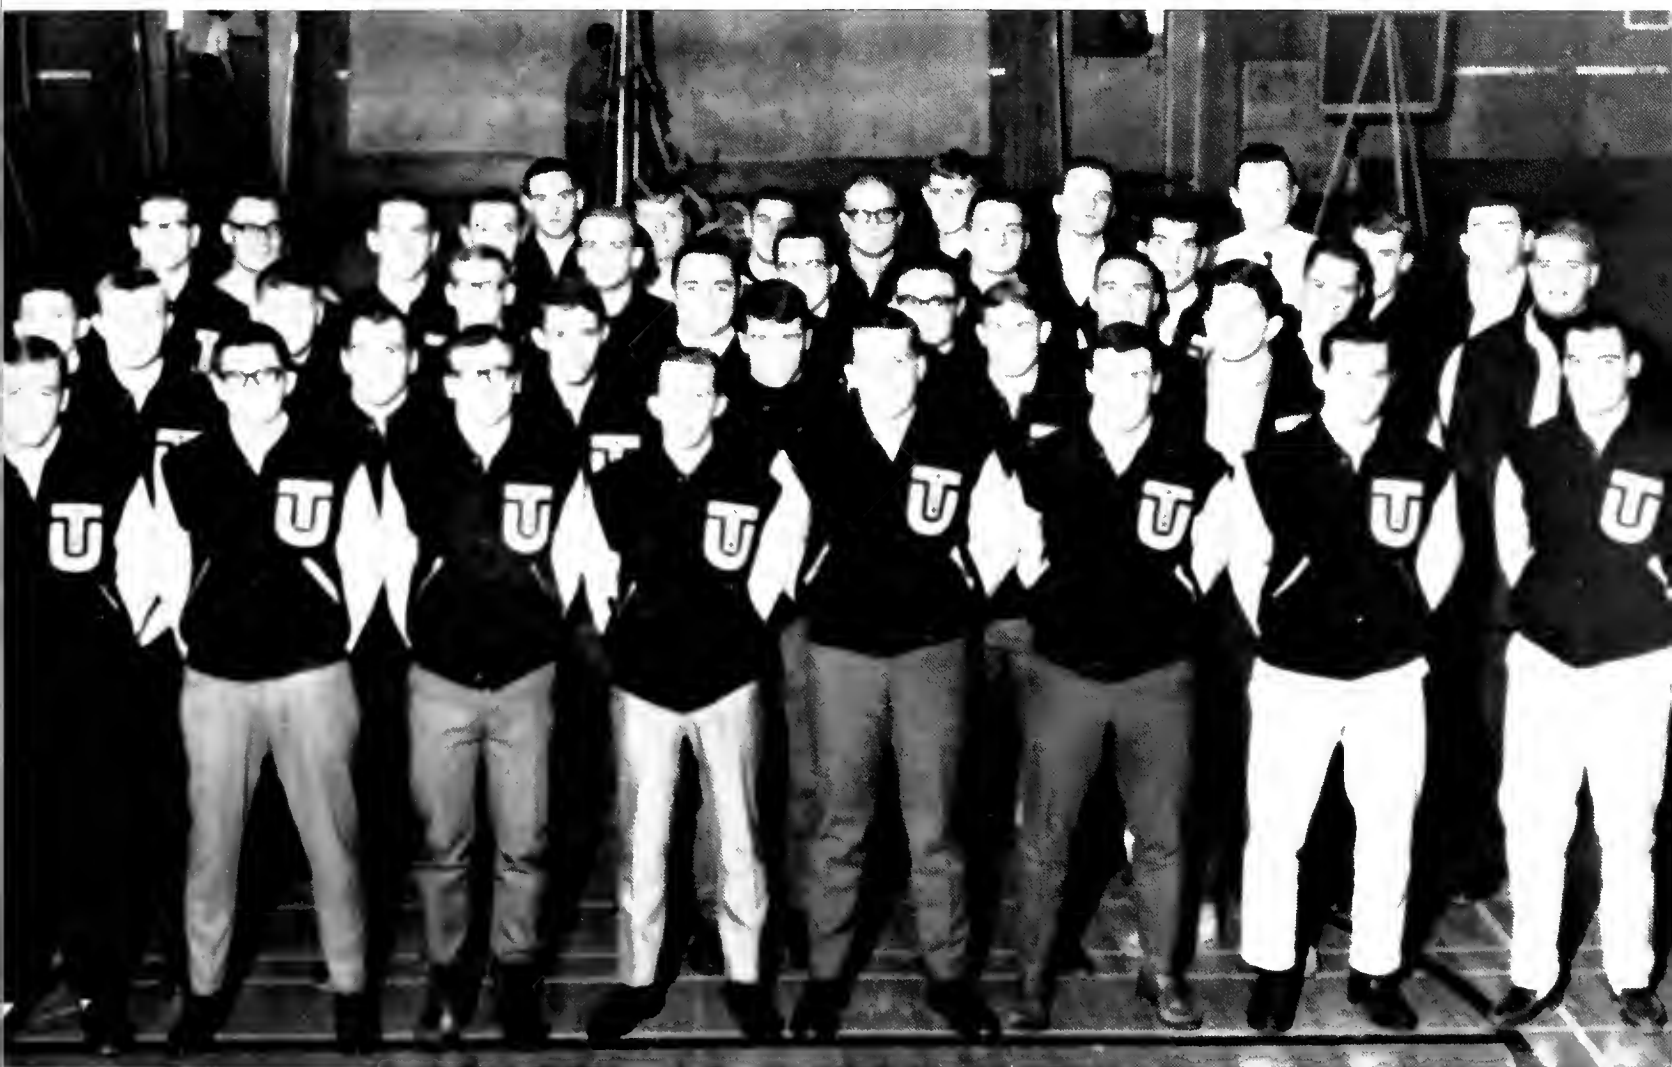

A large part of the freshman class poured onto the gym floor to present their skit in a bid for Class Day points.

As seniors stomp their canes on the floor of the gym balcony and as class songs resound from all sides, the skits of Class Day begin. This is but one of the activities concerned with the Class-of-the-Year Award. The County Fair, the Homecoming Floats, and the annual Bikathon are opportunities for the four classes to win points toward this coveted prize.

Helping their class to win first place in the Class Day skits, Garrett Crow, Dave Slater, and Kent Fishel clown around on stage.

The 1964-65 T-Club: left to right, row 1—Jerry Norquist, Onley Heath, Dave Persons, Jerry Hackney, Barry Horn, Bill Kelley, Bob Lovell, Paul Warner; row 2—Ken Flanigan, Ben Lester, Rich Graffis, Tim Henderson, Dick Gygi, Don Zahn, Bob Wynkoop; row 3—Rick Shearer, Larry Leistner, Terry Porter, Gary Jones, John Roush, Dave Johnson, Dave Andersen; row 4—Barry Comstock, Dan Kastelein, Tim Reeves, Ken Walker, Gordy Vandermeulen, Doug Dickinson, Walt Harvey, Mike Mancini; row 5—Bob Davenport (sponsor), Don Jones, Ted Dienert, Nelson Rediger, Larry DeBruyn; row 6—Loran Skinner, Paul Frykholm.

The T-Club, a fraternity for athletes, provides the programs at football and basketball games, arranges for the homecoming queen contest, manages the concession stands, sponsors the tourney for junior high teams, and offers the athletic banquet. The T-jacket, seen everywhere on campus, is a symbol of athletic achievement and Christian sportsmanship.

Student Wives Socialize in Wedding Band

The Wedding Band strives to enrich the spiritual, cultural, and social lives of its members. Within this club, student wives keep in touch with each other and share their common interests.

Members of the Wedding Band meet at the home of Mrs. Frank Royce for their monthly meeting.

Students From Foreign Nations Join International Student Fellowship

The International Student Fellowship is composed of students and professors with interests in other lands. The aim of the club is to develop an international point of view and determine the role of the student in international affairs. With the help of the Student Council, the Fellowship presents International Day, geared to interest students in other cultures.

Using Political Freedom — Young Democrats and Young Republicans

The aim of the Young Republicans Club and the Young Democrats Club (which was newly organized this year) is to integrate politics into Christian life. Intellectual stimulation and concern about the problems of contemporary society the world over are the results of the inactivities.

Officers of the newly organized Young Democrats Club are, seated, Elsie Fogel, and, standing, Bob Losch and Denny Austin.

The officers of Young Republicans Club stand beside the bulletin board which they posted in the cafeteria to keep students informed of current political developments. From left to right: Ron Kregal, Tom McCabe, Don Allbaugh, and Ted Hover.

"Welcome to Homecoming" was the feeling that enveloped Taylor's campus during 1964 Homecoming activities. School spirit was at an all-time high, and the entire student body lent its support, from the signs in Morris Hall windows to the screams at the big game Saturday.

Football practice, queen candidates, alumni receptions, and class floats herald the arrival of Homecoming Day, 1964. The theme, "Integration in Education," was portrayed in the various exhibits, and cheers rang out as the senior class was awarded first prize for its float. As the Homecoming Queen, Elaine Miller, reigned with her court, students and guests watched the Taylor Trojans triumph over the Franklin Grizzlies.

Judy Paulson, captain of the cheering squad, gives a leap for joy as the Trojans make a decisive play in the Homecoming game.

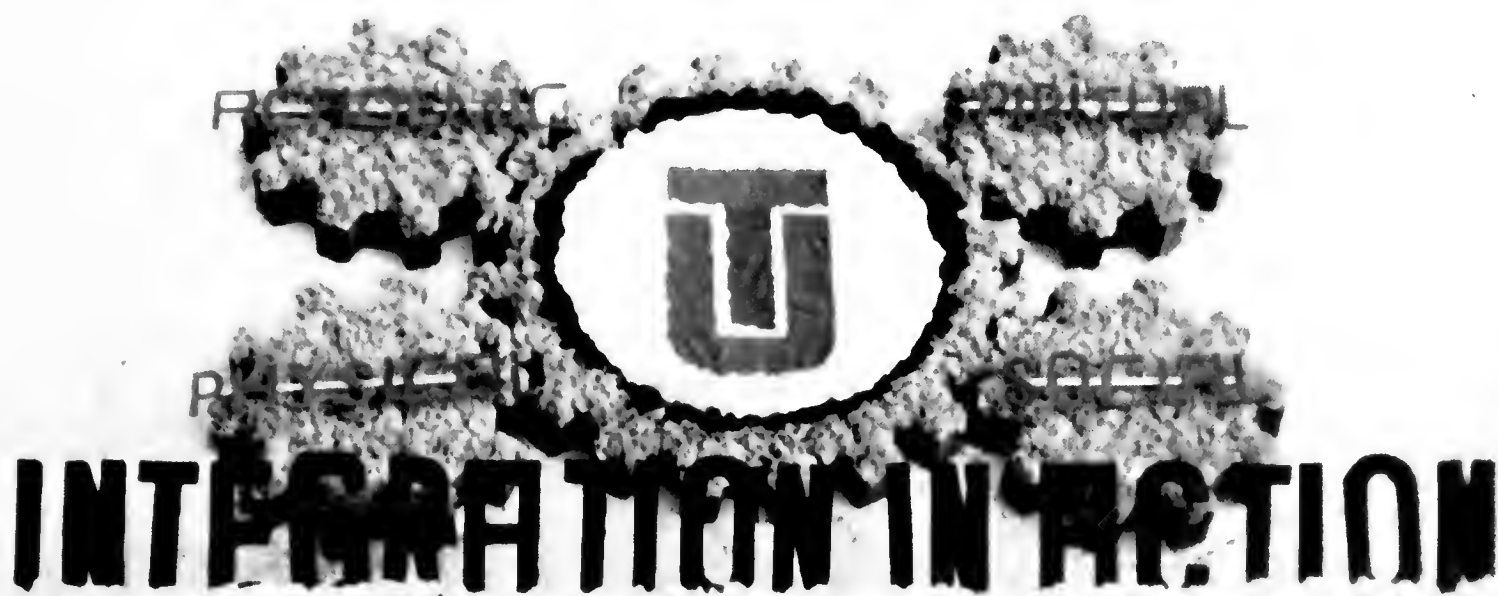

Depicting the four integrated parts of Taylor's program, the senior class float took first place in float competition.

Trojans Win Conference for Third Consecutive Year

Under the leadership of head coach Bob Davenport, the Trojans won the Hoosier College Conference Championship in football for the third consecutive year. With a squad made up predominately of underclassmen, the Trojans fought an up-hill battle to go undefeated in conference play. For the most part it was the defensive line, under the direction of assistant coach Jack King, which kept the conference record unblemished.

Coaches Bob Davenport and Jack King pensively watch the action on the field as Gary Jones waits anxiously to re-enter the game.

The Trojans take the field again in their quest for victory.

Making up the nucleus for this year's team were these nine seniors:

Standing: Paul Warner, Bob Ayton, Dave Andersen, Dan Kastelein, Ken Flanigan, Bill Jones. Kneeling: Tim Reeves, Bob Ransbottom, Jim Macleish.

The Trojans traveled to Michigan to play Hillsdale College under the lights in the Trojans first game of the season. Unable to see well in an annoying fog, the Taylor Trojans fought hard against this small college power only to come out on the short end of a 10-6 score. The only Taylor touchdown came in the second quarter when Bill Jones passed 68 yards to Paul Warner.

Fort Wayne Day saw Taylor battle the Manchester Spartans for a 14-0 victory. This victory, highlighted by two short touchdown passes from Jones to Warner, began the march toward the Hoosier College Conference.

I.C. Threatens Trojan Championship

The following week Taylor returned to league competition and was given a real scare by Indiana Central College. It was a frustrating day until the final two minutes of the game when Dan Kastelein smashed off tackle for eight yards to insure a 28-23 victory.

Against Hanover College the Trojans picked up their fourth conference victory by the score of 23-7. The pass proved to be Taylor's most effective weapon in this contest as Bill Jones threw scoring strikes to Lang, Warner, and Pete Carlson. The Trojans scored again in the last seven seconds of the game as Ken Flanigan kicked a 37-yard field goal.

The Trojan's version of Lou Groza, Ken Flanigan (33), splits the uprights against Manchester, aided by the blocking of Bill Kelley (30) and Dan Kastelein (82).

Dave Johnson (52) bursts through the line to pick up substantial yardage against Anderson.

In the heat of summer the team works on perfecting the execution of plays and getting into shape—and sleeps every spare minute.

On Friday the team goes through its final preparations for the game the next day.

A good defense is the best offense as this Manchester quarterback is being taught by Jim MacLeish (73), Tim Reeves (70), and Wayne Cummins (74).

Trojans Defeat Franklin at '64 Homecoming

The season reached its highpoint when Taylor met Franklin College before a large Homecoming crowd. In this game, to decide the conference champions, the only score came on a 23-yard pass play from Jones to Warner. From this point the Taylor defense thwarted Franklin's efforts to score to hold on for a 7-0 victory and the conference championship.

Playing before a large Parent's Day crowd the Trojan's saw an early 7-6 lead wiped out in the final minutes of play by a touchdown pass to lose to Northwood Institute 12-7. The Taylor touchdown came on a 40-yard pass from Jones to Lang.

Play of Underclassmen in Finale Points to Bright Future

Traveling to Kentucky's capital city of Frankfort, Taylor closed out its gridiron season, losing to the Kentucky State Thoroughbreds 25-0. Being shut out for the first time in four years, the Trojans could not mount any offensive attack, falling behind 19-0 at halftime. The highlight of the game for the Trojans was the longest run from scrimmage for the season of 44 yards made by the freshman Dave Stouse.

Losing but nine seniors, the prospects for next year look very bright; and the Trojans will be pushing hard for their first perfect season in history. However, it will be hard to replace such all-conference performers as Bob Ransbottom, Bill Jones, Paul Warner, and Tim Reeves.

Hard-running Dan Kastelein wrestles himself from the grasp of a Northman of Northwood.

"And they're off;" as Paul Taylor, Russ Potter, Rick Mann, and Jack Baumgardner leave the starting line at the Taylor Conditioner.

Trojan Harriers Dominate H.C.C.

Under the direction of Coach George Glass, Taylor University produced its best cross-country team in years. With a will-to-win attitude, the T. U. harriers swept over the opposition during the regular season. Then, before a home crowd, the Trojans captured first place in the Hoosier College Conference. This triumph was followed by a fine second place finish in the Little State Meet. The prospects for the next few years are bright with the return of such men as Jack Baumgardner who set a new school record, Jerry Hackney, Dick Gygi, Rich Graffis, Russ Potter, Barton Comstock, Sam Gloyd, Bill Donnelly, and others.

Rich Graffis gasps for that extra breath as he comes down the homestretch in the Conference meet.

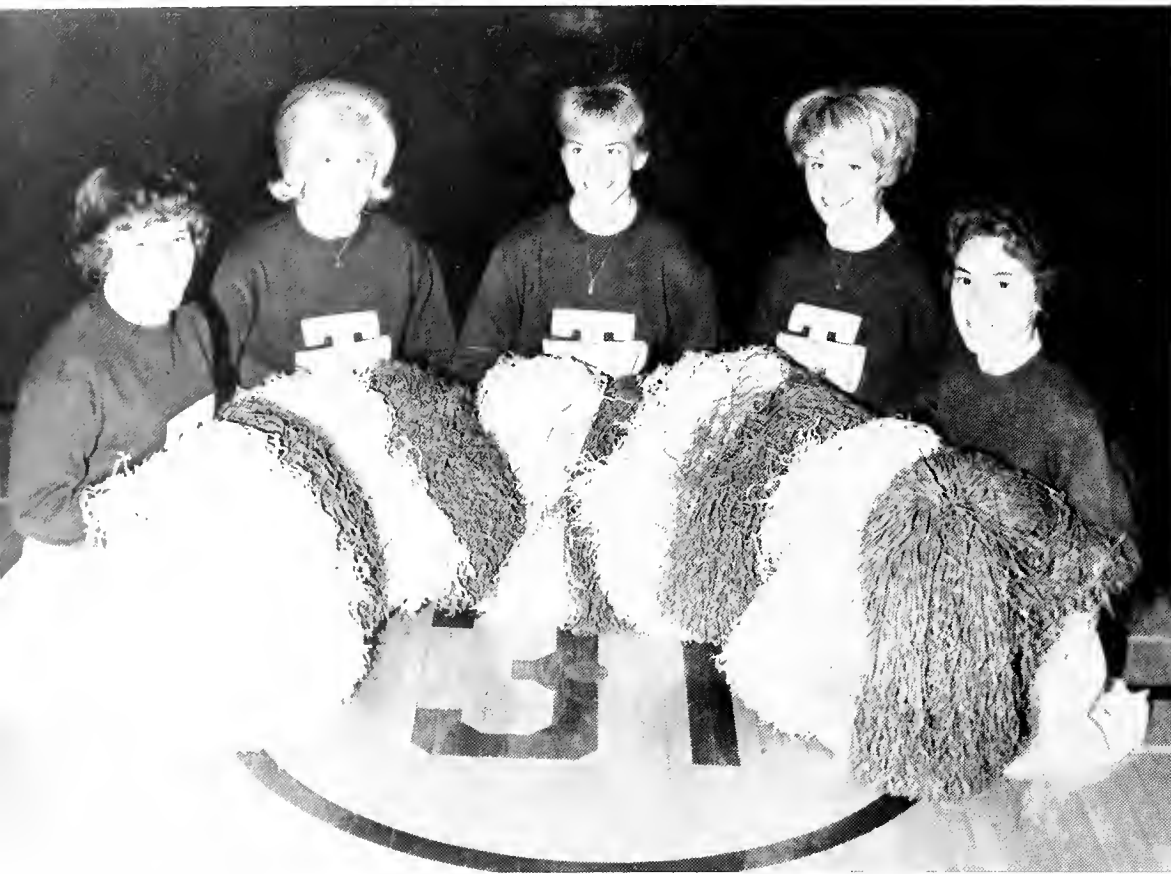

Barry Comstock leads a group of runners around the turn at the conference meet, followed closely by Russ Potter.

Cheerleaders and Majorettes Generate Spirit

Leading cheers this year were Karen Yount, Barb Wills, Judy Paulson, Bev Marshall, and Jan Sprunger.

Bringing the fever of the game to a high pitch and generating spirit among the spectators were the end products of many hours of hard work put in by the five faithful cheerleaders of T.U. this year. Working under the direction of Miss Janet Benning, the girls in blue and white diligently perfected the familiar cheers which echoed across the field of combat and urged the Trojans on to victory.

Head majorette, Lonna Setser, performs at half-time.

The Taylorettes performed with the band at Home football games. Many hours of drill and practice marching preceded each game. Miss Lonna Setser, lead majorette, was choreographer of the twirling routines in cooperation with the band director, Prof. Jesse Evans.

Anita Espich and Mary Lou Napolitano added their twirling and marching talents to the band performances.

Trojans Finish 3rd in H.C.C.

The Taylor University basketball team completed the long, hard climb from last place in the Hoosier Conference the previous year to third place this past year. Compiling a 12-10 record, Don Odle's Trojans showed promise of a similar improvement next year.

Led by seniors Ed Devries and Jim Miller, the Trojans won their first three games, including an impressive twenty-point victory over the alumni, only to lose by a scant three points in the closing seconds of the Taylor Tourney final to Huntington College. The Trojans then ran into some trouble, losing their first four Conference games.

Though closely defended by two opponents, Barry Matson gets off a shot as Ed DeVries moves in for the rebound.

Left: W.L. Taylor, at left, easy as the drive, through the entire Huntington College team to register two points for Taylor, Barry Matson and Ed Devries cut forward, the ball, and in cases.

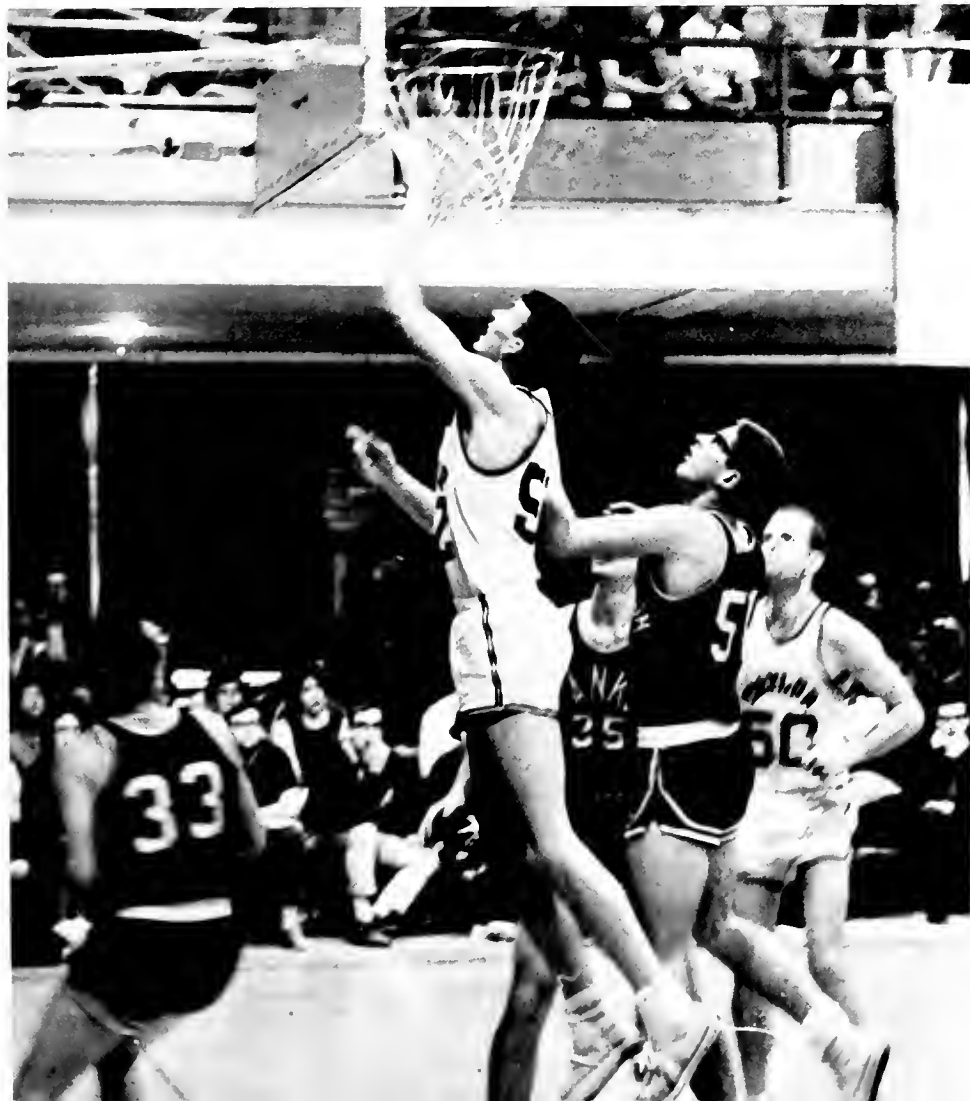

Following semester break, the complexion of the season began to change. On January 30 the Trojans traveled to Wheaton to play the powerful Crusaders in what was supposed to have been the biggest game of the season. The game went down to the wire with Wheaton prevailing 95-92.

The game with Wheaton provided the momentum as the Trojans went on to win four out of their final six Conference games. The sweetest victory of them all came when Taylor defeated Manchester College 83-81, to spoil the Spartans chances of becoming Conference champs. The season ended on a sour tone as the Trojans fell to Huntington again, this time by the margin of 95-92.

Trojans Make Long Cimb

Ron Bocken shows perfect form with a jump shot, and the result is two points for the Trojans.

Coach George Glass deserves a lot of credit, as he took over the leadership of the team after Coach Odle moved up to help in the administration office.

The Trojans show potential for next year with the return of such regulars as Ron Bocker (23 pt. average), Dan Wilson (15.7 average), Paul Wamsley (11.7 average), Larry Harvey (10.8 average), and Cliff Cox (9.3 average).

Jack Baumgardner maneuvers around a Franklin Grizzlie for a lay up as Larry Harvey moves in to help.

The ball seems like a foreign object as Ron Bocken scrambles for possession while Larry Harvey and Cliff Cox look on in astonishment.

"B" Team Enjoys Fine Season

The Trojan "B" team, under the able tutorship of Loran Skinner, again enjoyed a winning record of 12 wins and four losses while training the younger ball players for the future. The 1964-65 season saw three "B" team players move up to varsity; the three being Mike Hey, Jack Baumgardner, and Dan McKinnis. Besides these three several other players showed great potential.

Grapplers Strength, and Desire

The experience of competing against a Trojan grappler strikes fear into the heart of each opponent as can be seen by the expression on the face of this opposing wrestler.

Having vanquished his foe, Arden Dilley is named the winner of his match.

Result Is Another Successful Season

With Coach Bill Gallo at the helm, the Taylor wrestling team was guided to a second place tie in the Hoosier College Conference with the Anderson College Ravens. Bob Stewart, voted the conference's most valuable wrestler, and Lowell Boileau won first places, while Ben Lester captured second place.

Phil Myers looks for a hold as his opponent looks for someplace to hide.

Heavyweight Darien Morrison applies all his strength in an attempt to pin his foe.

The team prayerfully thank God for His help in winning the championship.

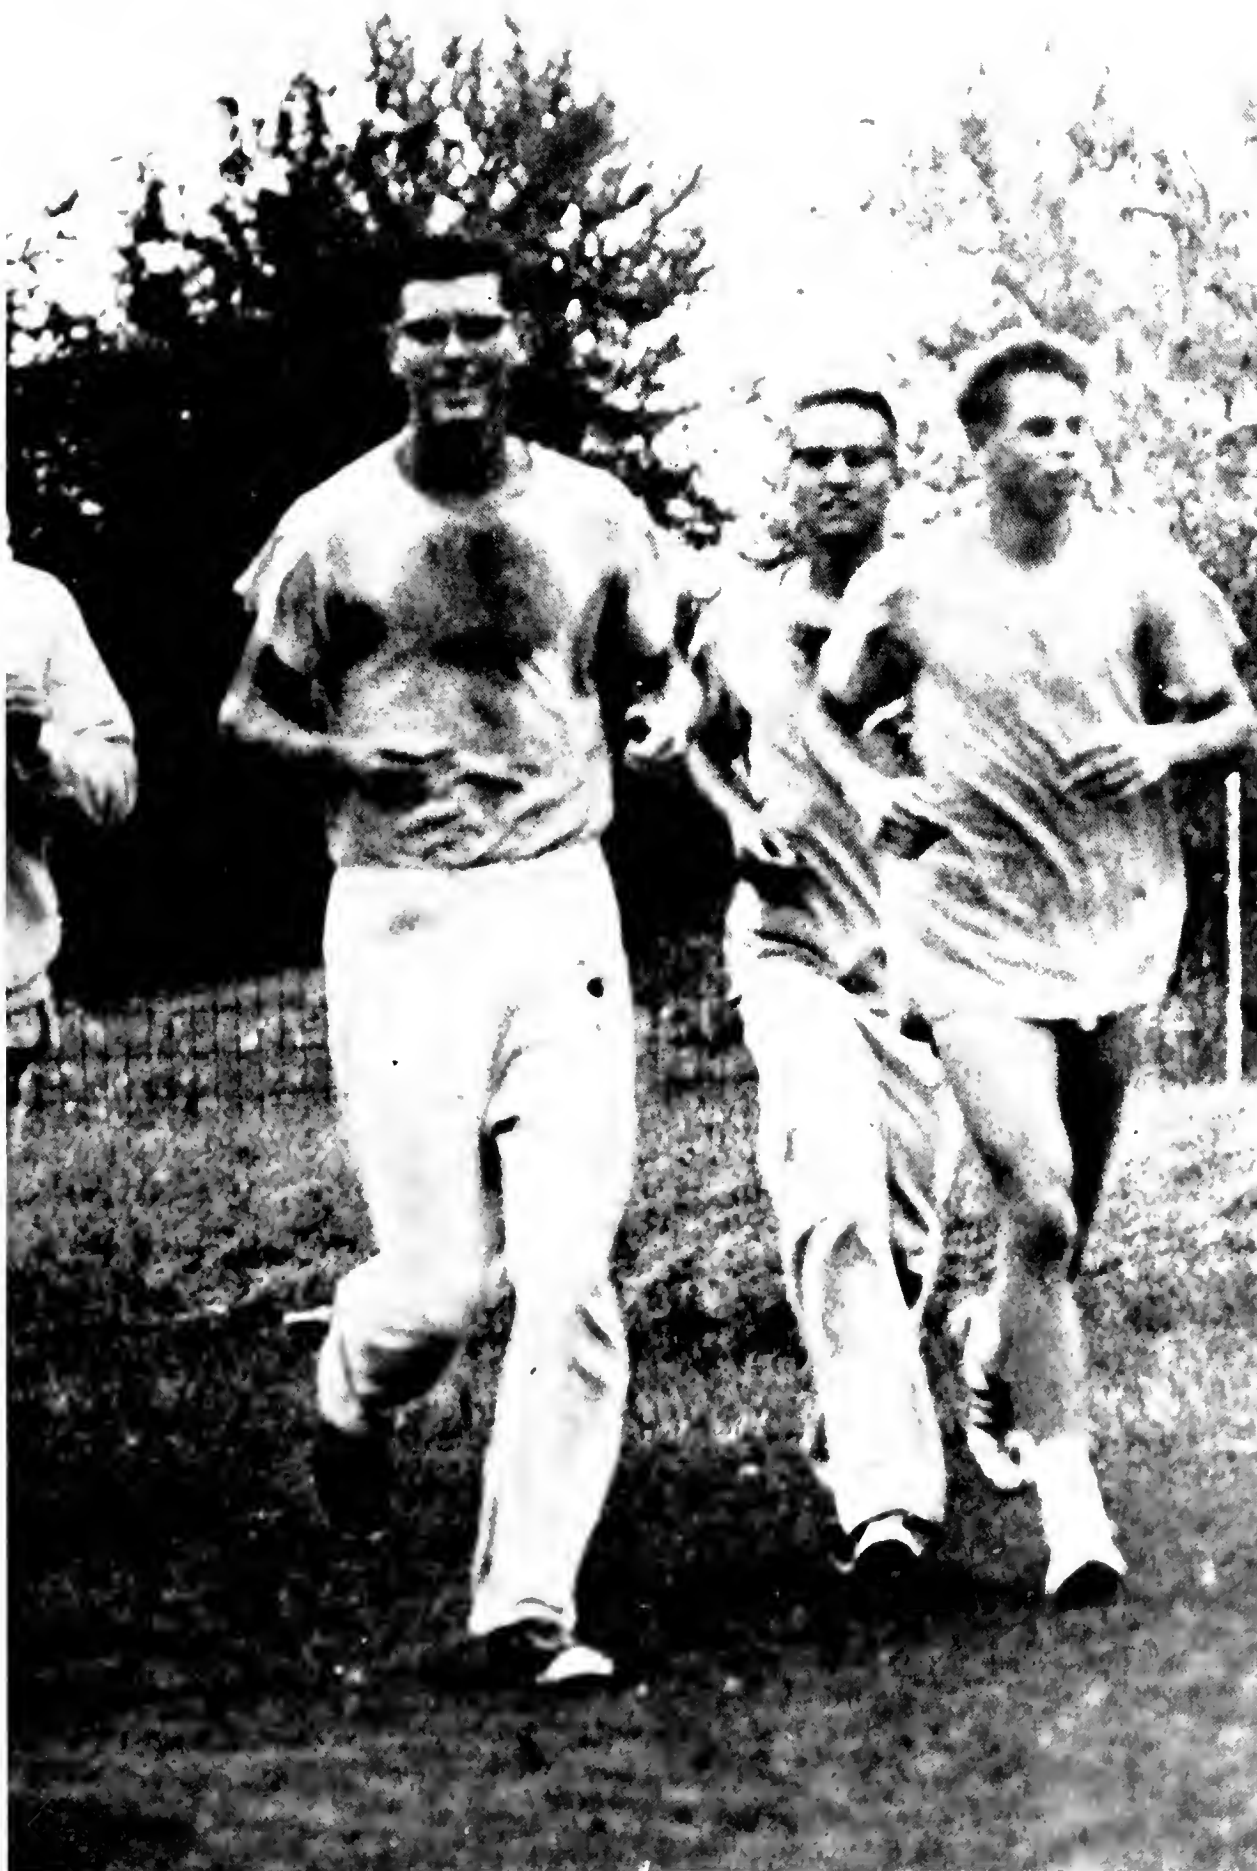

Trojans Win First H.C.C. Track Championship

The Taylor University track team made history in 1964 as, for the first time in the school's history, the Trojans won the Hoosier College Conference Track Championship. Led by Coach George Glass, the team showed outstanding ability and great depth throughout the season, losing only one dual meet.

The annual southern trip pointed to a very successful season. Berry College, Western Georgia, Shorter College, Pensacola Junior College, and University of The South, all succumbed to the Trojans as school records were set by Gary Jones (shot put), Paul Frykholm (hop, step, and jump), and Denny Blocher (pole vault).

Gary Jones warms up for the shot put event while John Roush awaits his turn.

Taylor distance men practice for the upcoming meets.

The Trojans suffered their only loss of the season in their first conference meet as they fell to Indiana Central by a scant five points. Following this setback, the Trojans continued throughout the season without another blemish on their record, setting many school and track records along the way.

The day toward which the entire team had been pointing came on May 16. On this day at Hanover College, the Trojans vanquished the other teams to become conference champs! Perhaps the sweetest victory of the day came when Jerry Hackney won the mile in a record-breaking time of 4:28.3. Other conference winners were Paul Frykholm in the broad jump (22-2), Gary Jones in the shot put (46-8 $\frac{3}{4}$), and Chuck Hertzler in the two-mile run (10:05.3).

The Taylor track team triumphantly celebrates the winning of the Conference championship.

Ron Bocken makes it look easy as he fires the ball to Loran Skinner to complete the putout. Paul Wamsley looks on from his centerfield position.

The 1964 Taylor University baseball team suffered the misfortune of losing many one-run games. Despite this fact, the Trojans were able to finish in third place in the Hoosier College Conference with a 4-4 record.

Tony Ladd holds up just in time to keep from being fooled by a fellow pitcher as Tony attempts to bunt.

Trojans See Promising Future

Under the leadership of Coach Jack King, the Trojans bounded back from a poor southern trip which saw their record drop below the 500 mark. Bad luck hit again as the Trojans lost a close game to Goshen College in the final of the Christian College Baseball Tournament.

The Trojans will feel the loss of All-Conference pitcher, Larry Winterholter; but the slack should be taken up by second baseman Ron Bocken and centerfielder Paul Wamsley, both also All-Conference performers. Other veterans which point to a successful 1965 are Loran Skinner, Mike Mancini, Terry Porter, Pete Carlson, Dan Wilson and Jerry Norquist.

Tennis Team Takes Second in H.C.C.

The Taylor University tennis team, under the direction of Coach Dale Wenger, enjoyed its most successful season in 1964. The squad, made up entirely of underclassmen, worked diligently and unceasingly throughout the season; and the end result was a second place in the Conference. With a strong top five, Captain Terry Porter, Larry Nykerk, Bob Casey, Bruce Gee, and Dan Keller, the Trojans have a bright future.

Although the Trojan golf team placed last in the H.C.C. in 1964, all does not appear lost. With the return of Ken Flanigan and Nelson Rediger along with the addition of many new prospects, Coach Don Odle has much to look forward to in 1965.

Students Find Relaxation Through Participation in Intramurals

Intramurals at Taylor provide the opportunity for any individual to enter team competition in flag football and basketball. This year saw a change in the usual results of flag football competition as a talented group of freshmen defeated the determined seniors to win the championship. However, things returned to normalcy as Denny Buwalda led his Senior Blazers to the basketball championship for the second year in a row.

Jack Wood, Paul Frykholm, Mike Wilson, Mike Mancini eye the basket with expectation as Tim Reeves takes a shot during a highly competitive intramural basketball game.

PERSONNEL

Publications Headed By Will Cleveland

Using imagination and creativity as he presents Taylor life, Public Relations Director Will Cleveland communicates the name of Taylor University to those outside the family. To many people the name "Taylor" means solely what Mr. Cleveland conveys through such publications as the Taylor University Alumni Magazine, "The President's Newsletter," "The Taylor University Profile," and a new miniature catalogue. For this reason he accepts the responsibility and the task of effectively recreating Taylor's atmosphere and communicating her programs in a verbal image.

"Alumni Ed" Co-ordinates Past With Present

Keeping the Taylor family in touch with the Upland Branch, "Alumni Ed." alias, Mr. Edward Bruerd, encourages a unity through friendship. Arranging Homecoming activities, visiting local alumni chapters, setting up coffee breaks, sending magazines, bulletins, and letters serve as a means of keeping the alumni aware of Taylor's progress. In another direction, "Alumni Ed" keeps Taylor aware of its past students with an up-to-date file containing interesting information on their achievements and progress. The spirit of the Alumni Center unites Taylor's past with its present.

Office Personnel Handle Records

The Registration-Admissions office and the Business Office staffs handle much of the paperwork that is necessary to keep the college "machinery" running smoothly. Among other jobs, filing records of students' academic performance, schedules, and financial arrangements keep each member busy.

Alumni affairs are kept in order by Mrs. Alice Shippy, Alumni Office Secretary, who is also the Class News Editor of the Taylor University Alumni Magazine.

Nurses Give Health Care

Even an epidemic of "spring fever" didn't raise the blood pressure in the health center as personnel battled everything from broken limbs to Indiana's annual flu seige. With three nurses always available and a doctor who examines patients during special office hours, students are constantly reminded of the importance of good health.

Duplicating Rolls Out Work

Everything from tests to play programs roll through the mailing and duplicating department as this efficient staff fulfills a necessary role in the college program. Serving the student body and faculty in the basement of Swallow-Robin, the department undertakes many large operations including a Youth Conference mailing and duplicated reports for all the school's activities.

Maintenance Cares for Buildings and Grounds

"Oh! no!—the sink's overflowing! . . ." might be a common cry summoning the maintenance men. But meeting daily emergencies is only a small portion of the responsibility of the maintenance staff. Heating the buildings, keeping facilities in good working order, cutting grass, and shoveling snow are jobs which are regularly done by these men.

Housekeepers Clean Dorms

Keeping halls, alcoves, and washrooms in order—so they don't look quite so "lived in"—housekeepers perform their duties cheerfully and helpfully. Forgotten irons and unwatered plants require a reminder from these women as they make dorm life a little nicer. Exchanging laundry on Thursday and straightening lounges the morning after the night before are just a few of their important duties, all of which make dormitory life a little more pleasant.

Bookstore Supplies Student Needs

An almost-forgotten birthday card, a new jacket to replace the one that wasn't packed, or maybe a good book to read that isn't even required—all of these may be found at the corner Bookstore. With efficient service T.U.'s Bookstore staff aids students in finding just the right tooth-brush, tall tale, or tantalizing treat. Supplies, from extra projects or materials to room decorations, are offered students in a wide selection—for browsing or buying.

Cafeteria Staff Prepares Taylor's Quality Fare

A tattered card flashes, a number blackened, and the cafeteria is open for business. While students visit this enjoyable atmosphere only three times a day, the cafeteria staff attend a day-long project as they prepare food that not only tastes good, but is delicious looking. Holidays and special occasions find the familiar room transformed, by the hard-working staff, into a glowing hall for banquets and buffets.

Staff members, Ruby Crull, Iva Mayor, and Mary Poling prepare dinner salads.

Grill A Favorite Stop-off for Snacks

Every thing from Johnson versus Goldwater to Confucianism opposed to Shintoism sounds better over an English muffin and a cup of hot tea at the grill.

An informal atmosphere prevails as students complete tomorrow's assignments, discuss world problems, or just sit and observe. Open till dorm closing hours, the grill provides a convenient snack break for late studiers.

Taylor is bricks and mortar, books and professors—the changing environment of a moment.

The time spent in these buildings, with these people, was what you made it—what you invested of yourself.

It was a shared experience—a complex of standards, attitudes, purposes, and relationships.

In the minds of all those who have learned, competed, labored, and laughed as a part of this University, it will live on—an experience, a memory.

The reality will soon belong to others while your college years will stretch across your path like shadows following the setting sun.

And the shadows begin to lengthen . . .
